Poles Apart

An uplifting, feel-good read about the power of friendship and community

Anna and Jacqui Burns

Sales Points

- Poles Apart is an uplifting and empowering novel that follows four women who undergo personal transformation through pole dancing classes.
- Anna and Jacqui Burns are a mother and daughter writing team. They live over two hundred miles apart and write their multi-viewpoint novels by emailing chapters back and forth.
- The emphasis on a close-knit community will appeal to fans of recent books by Libby Page and Sara Cox, and films such as Calendar Girls and Military Wives.

Reviews

- 'In Poles Apart there is a character that every woman can identify with. This uplifting story of four women, taking on pole dancing and changing their lives, is heartwarming, hilarious and empowering. An excellent summer read!' - Helen Hawkins, author of A Concert for Christmas
- 'Poles Apart is an absolute joy to read and a reminder of the value of female friendship' - Helga Jensen, author of Fly me to Paris
- 'This book is an absolute tonic. If you need a lift, read it! Funny, relatable, touching, and with a heartfelt message for any woman who's ever felt less than confident about her body or asserting herself... Poles Apart left me with a beaming smile on my face.' - Luisa A. Jones, author of The Broken Vow

Description

The Pembrokeshire village of Morlan is undoubtedly a beautiful place to live, but four of its female residents find themselves in search of something more.

Gwen seems to have it all but in reality her marriage is on the rocks. Meg has struggled with her health and her love life has barely got a pulse, but is she ready to shake things up? Recently widowed Ivy is fed up, but at seventy-two can she put herself first and revamp more than just her home? Mum of two Summer dearly loves her young children but is desperate to escape the sleep-deprived fog that has settled over her.

The announcement that pole dancing exercise classes are coming to the village hall offers something fresh and exciting to each of them, as well as the discovery of previously hidden strengths. As the group come together, a bond is formed that will allow them to overcome the trials and tribulations that lie ahead...

Description

Pippa Mason is ready for a fresh start. She has bought Pumpkin Cottage in the picturesque Wye Valley village of Riverdean, where her late mother grew up, and plans to renovate a run-down bed and breakfast. Despite the complications of the project and a very surly builder, Pippa is settling into village life and starting to fall for the charms of local Jake when problems start coming thick and fast ...

Jenny Foster has enough on her plate running Riverside Lodge as well as managing her husband Phil's diagnosis of early-onset dementia. She didn't need the threat of another B&B on her doorstep. When the spat between them escalates and an autumn storm brings matters to a head, Pippa and Jenny will have to see if Riverdean is big enough for the both of them.

Description

Gloucestershire, 1813. Miss Mary Lound of Tapley End would be the first to say that she demonstrates more grace with a fishing rod in her hand than she might ever twirling in a ballroom. This was not, however, a problem until her ne'er-do-well brother sold the family estate, leaving Mary and her mother in very straitened circumstances. When the new owner, Sir Rowland Kempsey, takes up residence, Mary decides to direct her energies into recovering her beloved home by catching a husband.

Promisingly, Sir Rowland thinks Miss Lound is a breath of fresh air. But with awkward attempts at flirtation, a duplicitous predator at large in the neighbourhood and the emergence of feelings that complicate her pragmatic goal, Mary discovers that landing the man she wants is more difficult than she had anticipated.

Author Biography

Sophia Holloway read Modern History at Oxford and also writes the Bradecote and Catchpoll medieval mysteries as Sarah Hawkswood.

Murder at Bletchley Park

The thrilling wartime mystery series (Blind Detective 8)

Christina Koning

Sales Points

- Allison & Busby are proud to publish a brand new instalment in the Blind Detective series, Murder at Bletchley Park, having successfully reissued Koning's earlier thrilling mysteries
- Murder at Bletchley Park follows the injured war veteran and amateur sleuth, Frederick Rowlands, as he investigates the case of a missing woman at the World War Two code breaking hub
- Koning's books have won awards and attracted great critical success

Reviews

- 'With vivid characterisation and a keen ear for dialogue, Christina Koning has all the qualities of a first-class mystery writer' - Daily Mail
- 'Beautifully written, the period feel is utterly convincing, and the hero - who is blind - is one of the most fascinating detectives' - Amanda Craig, author of Hearts and Minds

Previous Titles

Description

Spring, 1941. The Second World War has entered a dangerous phase, with British ships being torpedoed in the Atlantic and nightly bombing raids on major ports. At Bletchley Park, top secret home of the nation's code-breakers, the race is on to crack the German Enigma code and thus prevent further naval and military losses. This endeavour is suddenly very close to home for Frederick Rowlands, blind veteran of the Great War, when his daughter, Margaret, who works at 'the Park' as a cryptographer, is arrested on suspicion of betraying secrets to the enemy.

Then a young woman is found murdered, and Rowlands is drawn into a deadly battle of wits where he must decode a series of clues that will lead him to the killer and enable him to discover the real traitor at Bletchley Park.

Author Biography

Christina Koning has worked as a journalist, reviewing fiction for The Times, and has taught Creative Writing at the University of Oxford and Birkbeck, University of London. From 2013 to 2015, she was Royal Literary Fund Fellow at Newnham College, Cambridge. She won the Encore Prize in 1999 and was long-listed for the Orange Prize in the same year.

Litany of Lies
The must-read medieval mystery series (Bradecote & Catchpoll 12)

Sarah Hawkswood

Sales Points

- Following the massive success of the earlier titles in the Bradecote and Catchpoll series, we are proud to launch Sarah Hawkswood's new book in hardback
- This title will appeal particularly to fans of C. J. Sansom's books and Ariana Franklin's Mistress of Death series
- Author brings to life the mysterious world of twelfth-century Worcestershire

Reviews

- 'A new Bradecote and Catchpoll (and Wakelin) medieval mystery is always a true delight' - M. J. Porter

Previous Titles

Description

Midsummer, 1145. The steward of Evesham Abbey is found dead at the bottom of a well pit. The Abbot, whose relationship with the lord Sheriff of Worcestershire is strained at best, dislikes needing external help with the unfortunate incident. However, he grudgingly receives the trio of Undersheriff Hugh Bradecote, Serjeant Catchpoll and Underserjeant Walkelin.

As the sheriff's men probe who had more reason to want Walter the Steward dead, they discover that truth is in short supply. With the tensions between the Abbey and the local castle guard reaching boiling point, another killing will force the investigation down a dangerous path.

Author Biography

Sarah Hawkswood describes herself as a 'wordsmith' who is only really happy when writing. She read Modern History at Oxford and first published a non-fiction book on the Royal Marines in the First World War before moving on to medieval mysteries set in Worcestershire.
